CASUAL

Casual is more than state of mind. At Theodore Alexander, it's about easy-to-live-with furniture designs that accommodate your lifestyle – and not the reverse. A dining table perfect for a coffee klatch or Sunday supper. Bedrooms that look great mused up or made up. And living room furniture at ease with your floor plan. Yet, Theodore Alexander's approach to quality is anything but casual. Rigorous attention to detail – from creative inspiration to material selection to bench-made craftsmanship – is all by design.

THEODORE ALEXANDER

THE CASTLE BROMWICH COLLECTION

Theodore Alexander's Castle Bromwich Collection blends timeless furniture designs from the past with a commitment to environmental sustainability for the future. Each Castle Bromwich piece is handcrafted with beautiful reclaimed wood from architectural salvage, giving these often rare species new life while every piece reduces the demand for new wood.

The soul of this collection is inspired by Castle Bromwich Hall, a 16th century Elizabethan Manor house belonging to Theodore Alexander, currently being restored back to its original splendour, another example of breathing life into something old and beautiful.

This impressive collection offers something unique, giving Theodore Alexander's cabinet makers the opportunity of transforming the inherent natural characteristics and patina of these hand selected old timbers into treasured pieces of furniture, to be enjoyed for generations to come.

Castle Bromwich Hall is a remarkable building of great historical importance, the mansion was built in the late 16th century for Sir Edward Deveraux, the first Member of Parliament and High Sheriff of Warwickshire. The hall is of late Elizabethan design with strong Jacobean influences, comprising of four gabled ranges surrounding a small courtyard. The rear facade of the Hall is famous for having twelve windows - one for each Apostle and four dormers above - one for each Evangelist.

The estate was sold in 1657 to Sir John Bridgeman at which time the family made numerous changes to both the gardens, now open to the public and the main house. These included the addition of a magnificent Baroque porch which features the Deveraux coat of arms over the twisted stone columns of the porch and the figures above, named Peace and Plenty.

THEODORE ALEXANDER

THE ECHOES COLLECTION

What connects us to the past as we go forth in the modern world? Sometimes it's simply an ear for echoes, those fragments of memory, history and desire that so enrich the present. A longing for modern provenance is the inspiration for the aptly named Echoes Collection from Theodore Alexander.

Not surprisingly, there's often a ring of familiarity to Echoes Collection designs. It might be the arc of a demilune console or classic sunburst parquetry atop a pedestal table. That bow-back Windsor chair may stir a memory and begin to paint a picture. And, interesting hand-hewn spot tables and chests feel like one-of-a-kind antique store finds – without the dust

Echoes resonates, yet the mix is modern. Classic silhouettes for living room, dining room and bedroom are thoughtfully updated and scaled for today's homes. And Theodore Alexander has taken the starch out of traditional. The aesthetic is casual and relaxed – never precious.

The Echoes Collection is a material story too: oak wood, intricate parquetry and hand-cast aluminum, plus distressed leather and Belgian linens with widely spaced nailhead to soften the look. Our specially calibrated industrial-chic finishes are weathered and dry, but full of tactile appeal and vivacity. Entirely on trend for today's homes.

All by design. And almost entirely by hand. What better way to achieve a true time-worn and time-tested aesthetic than by making furniture the old-school way? Each Echoes Collection piece is unique and bears the marks of the maker.

From castle to condo, Theodore Alexander bridges past and present.

Can you hear the Echoes?
