THE KENO BROS. COLLECTION

Both in our careers and in our years on television we have dealt with heirlooms, pieces that are handed down and treasured by generations. We've personally witnessed the seismic shift occurring among consumers who are yearning for quality products that will stand the test of time. Indeed, almost daily, they ask us, "What can I buy today that will be valuable in the future?"

Driven by our love for antiques, and a passion for sculpture, furniture and rare objects, our vision is to create furnishings that will become the classics of tomorrow. Pieces meant to be coveted that are at the same time easily adaptable in various home environments and incorporate functionality through design and purpose. In fact, our line, is really the essence of what we are all about. It's not about decoration and ornamentation; it's about beauty and quality through and through.

Our hope is for the Keno Bros. line to be appreciated by people of all ages, ranging from the young person who wants to invest in one special piece for their home, to the savviest of collectors who can take pleasure in mixing these pieces with antiques acquired over a lifetime of travels.

THEODORE ALEXANDER

THE ANTHONY COX COLLECTION

Anthony Cox, creative director for Theodore Alexander for more than 15 years, now spends time in his personal studio in the English countryside creating designs for Theodore Alexander under his signature brand.

Anthony is a believer in eclectic interiors, combining textures and materials to create a layered feeling. There runs through his designs a common thread of modern classicism and insightful application of materials. Of his own designs, spanning from modern to traditional he states that “proportion, attention to detail and visual surprises are all hallmarks of Theodore Alexander.”

Inspired by his European upbringing and exposure to both great design and historical interiors, Anthony’s ethos builds on a tradition of classical proportions and classical lines translated for modern taste.
